Foremark Performance Chemicals Awarded EcoVadis Silver Medal in Recognition for Sustainability Performance

Foremark Performance Chemicals (“Foremark”) has received the Silver Medal rating from EcoVadis in recognition of its sustainability efforts and robust Corporate Social Responsibility practices. In the latest survey by EcoVadis, Foremark was ranked in the top 25 percent of the companies reviewed.

EcoVadis is a trusted global platform for assessing business sustainability, rating over 75,000 companies worldwide in over 160 countries. EcoVadis’ assessment measures companies on their Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) and continuing commitment to implementing social and environmental practices into their operations by reviewing the quality of a company’s sustainability management through its policies, actions and results. The assessment and corresponding scorecard focus on 21 criteria which are grouped into 4 themes: Environment, Labor & Human Rights, Ethics and Sustainable Procurement.

Being sustainable, safe and environmentally conscious are core principles at Foremark Performance Chemicals. Foremark is committed to ensuring that its entire supply chain, from raw material suppliers to customers, works to meet the expectations outlined in its Environmental, Health and Safety Policies. This also includes fair competition, support for global human rights and highly ethical behavior.

“We are delighted and honored to receive this Silver Medal recognition from EcoVadis. This recognition demonstrates Foremark’s ongoing commitment to sustainability and the environment at all levels of our operations,” said Randy Owens, CEO of Foremark. “Looking to the future, we will continue to advance our sustainability efforts to create value for our people, our business, our customers and our community.”
